(Tulsa, Okla.) — The Association for Women in Communications (AWC) kicks off their new year with guest speaker Tom Green, co-founder of Diversafest Conference and Music Festival (Dfest). The meeting will be held Wednesday, Sept. 12 from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Philbrook Museum of Art, 2727 South Rockford Road, in the Williams conference room.

Diversafest, LLC (Dfest) is the most comprehensive music conference and festival in the Midwest. Created by Tom Green and Angie DeVore, the festival strives to strengthen the rich cultural diversity of Oklahoma’s music scene. The June 2007 event provided an opportunity for emerging artists to showcase their talents and attend music conference panels designed to educate working musicians at any stage of their career. This successful festival has grown from 12 bands in 2002 to 150 in 2007, including Grammy award winners The Flaming Lips as well as Leon Russell, Amos Less and Shiny Tony Guns.

The Association for Women in Communications (AWC) champions the advancement of women across all communications disciplines by recognizing excellence, promoting leadership, and positioning members at the forefront of the evolving communications era. The group meets every second Wednesday of the month at Philbrook Museum. Reservations are required and can be made by contacting Martha Cullinan Cantrell at Martha@cmgadv.com or (918) 742-4655. Reservations should be made by the Friday prior to the meeting. For more information, visit the group’s website at www.awctulsa.org.
