Crisis Communications – Is there any other kind?

(Tulsa, Okla.) — The Association for Women in Communications (AWC) welcomes guest speaker Stan Whiteford, Corporate Communications for Public Service Company of Oklahoma. The luncheon meeting will be held Wednesday, Oct. 10 from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Philbrook Museum of Art, 2727 South Rockford Road, in the Williams conference room.

A native and lifelong Tulsan, Stan Whiteford is a professional communicator with more than 25 years experience. For the last 15 years he has been the spokesperson for Public Service Company of Oklahoma and was recently named Professional of the Year by the Tulsa chapter of the Public Relations Society of America (PRSA). Stan will discuss the importance of crisis communications in any situation while struggling to keep customer satisfaction high.

The Association for Women in Communications (AWC) champions the advancement of women across all communications disciplines by recognizing excellence, promoting leadership, and positioning members at the forefront of the evolving communications era. The group meets every second Wednesday of the month at Philbrook Museum. Reservations are required and can be made by contacting Martha Cullinan Cantrell at Martha@cmgadv.com or (918) 742-4655. Reservations should be made by the Friday prior to the meeting. For more information, visit the group's website at www.awctulsa.org.
